

Connecting Life and Careers is excellent for younger students, discovery units, transition courses, or any life and career class.

This 12-lesson program addresses the real-life connections of your students' education today and their future personal life and career.

The 8-10 page lessons with multiple choice assessment after each lesson offer appealing stories of typical young people in a variety of relevant situations.

Lessons are accompanied by critical thinking activities that help students understand the opportunities that can enhance their life and career and the mistakes that can detour their life and career.
